THE DEATH OF MR. HOBART

The Vice-President Passed Away at 8:30 This Morning

ALL THE FAMILY WERE PRESENT

When the End Came—Only Yesterday He Was Able to Sit Up—His Death a Surprise.

By Wire to the TELEGRAM.

New York, Nov. 21—Vice-President Hobart died at his home at Paterson, N. J., at 8:30 this morning. He had been seriously ill for three months and was thought to be dying a month ago. Subsequently he rallied and only yesterday was able to sit up. Members of the Hobart household were all present when the end came. He passed away quietly. The improved condition of the patient caused the announcement of his death to be received with much surprise.

HOW HE DIED.

New York, Nov. 21—Shortly before midnight Hobart awoke and spoke a few words. What they were has not been disclosed by the family. He immediately became unconscious and remained in a comatose state the balance of the night. His physician ascribes his death to heart failure.

OFFICE TO REMAIN VACANT.

Washington, Nov. 21—By the death of Hobart the office of vice-president becomes vacant for the rest of McKinley's term, as the law provides no successor. A president pro tem. of the senate, however, will be elected when congress assembles. Frye of Maine now holds the office. He will preside until a successor has been chosen, and he will undoubtedly succeed himself.

Our Tobacco Market.

The receipts on the Greensboro tobacco market for last week were rather light, owing to unfavorable weather for handling tobacco, but as soon as our tobacconists have a good season larger receipts are expected. Prices last week were full up; in fact, the highest prices paid this season. It looks like there is a gradual stiffening in prices without any apparent cause. The market today is quite active, with all the buyers lively and in good spirits.

I have been studying Tea for 20 years, the "Black Seal Ceylon is the result. Profit by my experience and buy a pound at your grocer's.

NOTES FROM HIGH POINT.

The Local News From Our Neighbor Briefly Told.

TELEGRAM BUREAU,
HIGH POINT, N. C., Nov. 21.

It was reported here last night that the woods on Shepherd Mountain were on fire.

Miss Dorsett, of Greensboro, was here yesterday.

W. E. Perkins, wife and daughter, of Richmond were guests of this city yesterday.

J. S. Davies and George Happleton represented the "sore-back" state here yesterday.

And old darkey walked into one of our drug stores last night and approached the clerk in the following language: "Boss, I wants some medicine to work on my libber and ONE of my kidneys!" He got it.

Burners' Comedy Company gave a performance at the opera house last night. Burners, the ventriloquist, is good at the business, while several other features of the show are somewhat interesting. They will remain through the week and the price of admission will be ten cents.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B Havre and Master Jean, recently of San Francisco, California, arrived here last night on the vestibule to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donahue Smith on Steele street. Their friends here are are glad to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Havre back after their journey through South America and the states.

Rev. J. R. Scroggs leaves for Concord to attend the M. E conference.

Miss Deborah Tomlinson, of Archdale, passed through last night en route home from Greensboro.

Did you ever know a horse to be sold for less than five cents? Ab Holton bought one yesterday for three cents and sold it to Chief of Police Bennet for twenty-five cents, and it wasn't in as bad condition as it could have been either. After all the man who sold the "bone-yard" for three cents was dissatisfied and on paying twenty-five cents came into possession of it again, after which he sold it for a second-hand Waterbury watch and a few cents and went on his way rejoicing.

Would a steam laundry pay in High Point? This question has been asked more than once. We believe it would. There are already four or five different laundries represented here and they secure a good "washing" weekly. Then look at the territory we could draw from—Thomasville, Jamestown, Archdale, Randleman, Asheboro, from points along the Page road, Lexington and other places. With High Point and these near-by towns to draw from, a laundry should pay well here. What do you think about it?

By Cable to the TELEGRAM.

Durban Nov 21—Joubert is advancing upon Estcourt, but up to last night had not arrived.

London, Nov 21—The Standard and the Digger News deny that the Transvaal government is destroying the mines. On the contrary, the papers assert, the mines are being worked and the gold utilized to defend the republic's independence. The Transvaal will be repaid at the end of the war. European shareholders may rest confident that no mines will be ruined.

NORMAL COLLEGE SITUATION

STATEMENT FROM DR. M'IVER

Competent Physicians and Trained Nurses in Attendance—Health Committee Yet Inspecting

The Telegram is pleased to learn from Dr. McIver this afternoon that the condition of affairs at the State Normal and Industrial College today is somewhat improved.

Four or five of the young ladies who are sick were well enough to go home this morning and those who are still at the college are thought to be some better. The sick are being attended by several physicians and twelve or fifteen trained nurses.

The special committee of the state board of health made a thorough investigation of the premises yesterday and today, but have not yet made their report, though it is thought they have decided that the cause for the sickness is a defective sewer pipe under the dining room, which defect will be repaired at once.

We publish herewith a written official statement from Dr. McIver, which was received last evening too late for yesterday's paper; also a statemen from Mayor Taylor which explains itself:

STATEMENT FROM DR M'IVER.

By the authority of the executive committee telegraphed to me Saturday night and Sunday morning the State Normal and Industrial College has closed until January 2nd, with the understanding between the students and faculty that the time lost between now and the Christmas holidays will be added at the end of the college year, thus running the annual session into the latter part of June.

This action was taken because of the large number of students sick with malarial trouble, and especially because on Saturday I was informed by the physicians that we had at least two cases, and probably three or four cases, of typhoid fever.

One hour after learning that there was a case of typhoid fever here I assembled the students and informed them, asking them to inform their parents immediately.

A meeting of the faculty was called and with their unanimous endorsement of the plan I assembled the students, all of whom except ten thought it better to discontinue college work until after the Christmas holidays.

I immediately telegraphed to the members of the executive committee, and on Sunday morning made official announcement of the suspension.

The malarial troubles have prevailed here to an unusual extent for the past two or three weeks, and on the 15th instant I wrote requesting the state board of health to come and inspect the premises.

At that time I could not discover any sufficient local cause for the unusual amount of malarial trouble.

Since then by continuing the search at least one probable cause for the trouble has been discovered.

I prefer to make no positive statement in regard to it until the health officers pass judgment upon the matter.

The executive committee was present on Thursday and Friday of last week in their annual meeting auditing the accounts of the treasurer, and while here made inspections of the grounds, buildings, etc., and could see no local cause for the trouble.

It was on Saturday afternoon that the cause to which I have referred was discovered.

Naturally many exaggerated statements in regard to this matter have gained currency. I take it that the public is especially interested in the following facts:

1. There are forty-eight sick students still here. Some of these are preparing to leave tomorrow. It must be remembered that this is less than 12½ per cent of the students in the dormitories and only about 10 per cent. of the enrollment of the college. The total number affected in all the two or three weeks has not been so large as is frequently reported for a single day by uninformed people.

2. I am unable to say how many of these forty-eight cases will prove to be typhoid fever. Some are convalescent.

3. In addition to our resident physician we have had the regular assistance of one of the leading and best known physicians in the state, and more recently other leading physicians in Greensboro and from elsewhere have assisted in directing the treatment of patients. I cannot express too warmly my appreciation of the work done by these physicians and by the trained nurses and volunteer nurses and the faculty who have labored so incessantly and cheerfully.

4. Three deaths have occurred. The first on Wednesday, the second on Saturday morning, and the third on Saturday night at 1 o'clock. None of those who died had been sick for a very long while. One of them was in bed only eight days, and in another case there were serious complications in addition to the malarial attack.

I desire to say that there has been practically no sickness during these three weeks among our students who do not board in the dormitories, whether residents of the city or students from a distance boarding in private families. There is no general cause for this trouble peculiar to Greensboro. It is the result of a general visitation of malarial fever throughout the Piedmont section of the state as shown by the State Health Bulletin, published at Raleigh, intensified and aggravated by some defect in a sewer pipe near the main college dormitory. Whatever defect there is in this or any other particular will be thoroughly investigated and remedied. I do not doubt that this can be done thoroughly and completely in time for the regular opening on January 2nd.

Permit me to express my grateful appreciation of the brave, loyal and helpful spirit exhibited by the students during the past week. I also appreciate thoroughly the sympathetic and cordial offers of help from hundreds of people in Greensboro and the expressions of sympathy and encouragement from patrons and others throughout the state.

Charles D. McIver,
President.

MAYOR TAYLOR'S STATEMENT.

In view of the many extravagant rumors that are afloat in regard to the unfortunate outbreak of malaria at the State Normal and Industrial College, I felt it a duty which I owe the public, by virtue of my office, to investigate and make a statement in regard to the condition of affairs there, as all that pertains to its welfare is of vital interest to our people.

In company with a representative of the press, I called at the president's office this morning and found there a committee from the state board of health making a thorough examination of everything on the premises.

I found that there are now forty-eight young ladies confined to their rooms, only three or four of whom are considered to be seriously ill. This number seems to be startling, but when the fact that there are nearly five hundred young ladies in attendance is taken into consideration, it will be seen that only ten per cent. of the entire number are too unwell to leave their rooms.

The outbreak seems to have been the result of causes purely local, as is evidenced by the fact that none of the young ladies who do not board in the institution nor have any of the families who live near by and at the foot of the watershed surrounding it, contracted the disease, it being confined exclusively to those boarding within the building. A further evidence that the disease is purely local is the fact that the general health of our citizens was never better than now.

A careful examination has disclosed the fact that a leak in a defective sewer pipe buried in the ground under the dining room, which could not have been discovered by the officers, has been the cause of this deplorable outbreak.

Deplorable as it has been, our people have reason to be thankful that the cause is one which can be and is being remedied, and that there is no reason why the college may not resume on January 2d, 1900, the great work it has been doing for the women of North Carolina and in the future equal, or even surpass, the phenomenal [illegible] record it has made up to this time.

MISS CALDWELL'S FUNERAL

A special to the Telegram from Davidson, dated yesterday, says:

The funeral services of Miss Daisy Caldwell, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Caldwell, were conducted from the Presbyterian church this morning at 11 o'clock. The body reached here last night from Greensboro, following the bereaved parents, who had returned home but a few hours earlier. Both father and mother were with their daughter when she died. Mrs. Caldwell, however, did not leave for Greensboro until Saturday and got there only in time to find her daughter in a dying condition.

The death of the young woman is one of the saddest, in some respects, that has been known here for a long while. Just two months ago she left, with a number of her school mates and friends, for the Greensboro Normal and Industrial College, and to all appearances a bright and happy life on earth was before her. But God willed that the brightness and happiness should not be enjoyed here, but in the world above and in His own presence. After an illness of two weeks, in which her constitution was unable to struggle successfully against the dread fever, she passed away in the Christian's faith. About a year ago she joined the church here, after giving clear and satisfactory evidence before the session that she was a child of grace, as she had long been of the covenant. Possessed of a singularly bright and cheery disposition, a sweet face and attractive, engaging manners, all who knew her loved and esteemed her. A large crowd, both from the country and village, gathered at the church to pay their last respects and to express to the bereaved family their deep sympathy, and as the pastor conducted the exercises and made most feeling allusions to the departed, many were the eyes that were wet with tears. The floral offerings at the cemetery were very beautiful, and the grave was made a bed of roses and chrysanthemums.

A New Calendar.

The first new calendar to reach the Telegram's editorial sanctum is from the clever and entirely up-to-date firm of Will H. Matthews & Co. The design is very pretty, representing a bronze-framed picture of a hunter sitting in a boat moored in a pretty little cove on the edge of a lake, sheltered by the bull-rushes, while his elevated gun is levelled at a flock of ducks that has just taken wing.

SENATE TO BE RE-ORGANIZED.

The Body to Pass Under the Complete Control of Republicans

SENATOR FRYE, OF MAINE,

Special to The Telegram.

Washington, Nov 21—At the beginning of the approaching session of congress, there will be almost a complete reorganization of the United States senate, as that body will for the first time in many years pass under the complete control of the republicans. The majority of the republicans will be not less than sixteen, and in the event of the death of Senator Haywood, of Nebraska, it will not fall below fourteen. At present under a compromise effected during the last congress, when neither the republicans nor democrats had a clear majority, but the populists and silver republicans held the balance of power, the republicans were given the presidency pro tempore of the senate, while the democrats were given the minor offices such as secretary, sergeant at arms, postmaster and chaplain. The present chairmen of the senate committees are divided between the two great parties, the republicans having all the important chairmanships. When the new senate convenes, by the retirement of several senators who failed of reelection, there will be much shifting about in the senate assignments. The selection of senate committees is not done after the manner established by the house of representatives, where the speaker appoints all the members of the committees both for the majority and minority, but in the senate the members of the committees for the majority and minority are chosen by the caucus of the respective parties.

As to the organization of the senate there is no doubt but Senator Frye, of Maine, will again be chosen president pro tempore. Secretary Cox, who comes from North Carolina, will be replaced by a republican official, and it is likely that a republican sergeant-at-arms will be chosen to succeed Col. Bright, of Indiana. Col Bright, however, is very popular both with the republicans and democrats and his long service in the senate chamber has rendered him a most efficient official. There will doubtless be a strong effort made to retain him in the office of the sergeant-at-arms, and he is likely to have the support of some of the republican senators. After all the organization of the senate is not so much along the political lines as in the house. No matter which party is in control of the senate, there are always to be found [illegible] of democrats and republicans [illegible] senate recognizes [illegible] a much [illegible] lower house, where [illegible] reign supreme [illegible] A [illegible] of the senate [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible]

[illegible] change in the office of chaplain. The present chaplain of the senate is Rev. Dr. Milburd, the venerable blind divine, and he is well known to members of both the senate and house. He served for three terms as chaplain of the house of representatives, being chosen first by a democratic house to succeed Rev. Dr. Powers, who was President Garfield's pastor. When the house passed under the control of the republicans, an effort was made by the republican caucus to oust him from the chaplaincy of the house, but when the vote was taken enough republicans voted for Milburn to re-elect him by a large majority. Later he was chosen chaplain of the senate, and he was succeeded in the house by Rev. Henry N. Corbin, who is also blind. Unless Chaplain Milburn decides to voluntarily withdraw, there is not much doubt but that he will again be chosen chaplain of the senate.

It is not likely that the organization of the senate will take place for some time after the assembling of congress, perhaps not before the Christmas holidays.

It is said that there is no doubt that Gov. Tyler will enter the democratic caucus as a candidate for the senatorship. He is not conceded more than thirty votes in the legislature, and it is the belief of the Martin men that he will not get more than twenty-five. Martin, it is thought, will get the balance of the legislature.

Virginia will probably be divided on the question of the minority leadership in the coming congress. Some of the members will, it is said, support D'Armond, and others will go to Richardson, of Tennessee.

James E. Anderson, of Manchester, Va., has been granted a pension of six dollars per week.

House Warming.

The building of the Southern Loan and Trust Co. will be thrown open to the public Thursday evening from 7 to 11 o'clock. A number of the occupants of the rooms will throw their doors open. The reading rooms and all public parts of the building will be open. Music will be furnished by the orchestra.

A pleasant evening is promised to everyone who will come out.

THE NORMAL COLLEGE AFFAIR.

President McIver's act, in closing the State Normal and Industrial College until after the holidays, when the exact cause of the sudden sickness among the young lady students of the institution shall have been discovered and eradicated, was entirely the part of wisdom, and demonstrates that the confidence placed in him by the parents of about four hundred students in entrusting the physical as well as the intellectual and moral safety of their daughters into his keeping, was well bestowed. Dr. McIver bravely and calmly faced the situation. After it was told him by competent medical authority that typhoid had appeared in the institution, he immediately procured by wire of the executive committee of the college permission to allow the large body of students to disperse to their homes before real danger occurred, and steps were immediately taken to remedy the trouble by the summoning of expert physicians and bacteriologists, who are now engaged in a thorough inspection of the premises. It is entirely safe to assume that all danger will be speedily removed by a thorough overhauling of the sewerage system of the college, which is known to be the seat of the trouble.

It is truly a public calamity that the grand work of the Normal, in the auspicious opening of its most successful year, should thus have been interfered with. But the trouble lies wholly within the realm of accident, and was unavoidable. And the friends of the institution all over the state and country will be patient and lenient till the experts have placed the college in the status it occupied but a few weeks ago.

Universal sympathy goes out to those upon whom the trouble has fallen most heavily. For the death of the three young ladies whose bright and promising careers have been ended so sadly and unexpectedly there is profound and sincere sorrow. May consolation from above come to their darkened homes and comfort their loved ones in this hour of desolation!

To President McIver and his patient, tireless faculty, who have labored so ceaselessly for the comforts of the sick, and who must deeply feel the weighty responsibility on their shoulders, the deepest sympathy is extended by a people who are ready to render all assistance possible, and who hope that the beginning of the year may witness the happy re-opening of the Normal under more than ever flattering circumstances.

In conclusion, the Telegram feels that it is but justice to state that the cause of the fever at the Normal does not extend to this city—it is purely local. A prominent physician of the city remarked to the Telegram yesterday that he knew of the existence of but one case of typhoid in Greensboro.

The movement started to save the forests of Western North Carolina and to induce the federal government to establish a national park in some place in the sky-lands, promises to be successful. The is no place on earth more congenial to the health nor more pleasing to the eye than the mountain country of Western Carolina.

SOUTH AFRICAN WAR.

There is an ominous lull in the South African war business. The English garrisons—if we may believe the doctored reports from the correspondents—appear to be everywhere holding their own, and occasionally some "brilliant sortie" drives back the Boers in defeat and retreat. Buller, the commander-in-chief of the English forces, has recently arrived in the southern part of Africa armed with authority and men to wage a bloody and relentless campaign, and he is doubtless preparing for some combination of movements that will result disastrously for the Dutchmen, although this may not be expected to occur for some time yet, as the Boers are in good spirits and their cause is yet strong. But the immence resources of the English and their fine equipment must turn the tide in their favor before many weeks have passed.

The most interesting thing recently about the war in the Transvaal was the dispatch we printed in the Telegram yesterday announcing that President Kruger is no longer confident, but has become morose and disheartened, and that he lives like one isolated from the world. To see the country that one loves and for which one has fought and is willing to die, sinking into bondage;—to see one's people losing a brave fight for their honor and their liberties, and the chains of a foreign nation fastening themselves more closely—this is sufficient to make one live "isolated" from the world.

President Kruger may be a stubborn, partisan, jealous old crank, but he loves his people. And the sorrow at his shrivelled old heart at this period of his country's history, is very pathetic.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC.

BY J. W. TILLINGHAST.

[All communications intended for this department should be sent to J W. Tillinghast, 415 Eugene street.

All notices for publication should be handed in not later than 9 o'clock Monday.]

Two of the most important factors in public worship are the sermon and the song By the former, I mean that part of the service which is spoken; by the latter that which is sung—relatively they stand in the order named. In some denominations most of the service is sung; in others singing is about the only part of the service in which the congregation can audibly join. They are led in prayer, read to, and preached to, but to most of the members of the congregation—it should be to all—the singing is an uplifting exercise, attuning the heart to devotion in such a way as to make each one's worship a personal matter.

It is not necessary for me to mention the many passages in the Bible referring to music in relation to religious exercises. Christ put the seal of Divinity upon music when, at the Last Supper, He permitted the singing of a hymn. Who can doubt that the Rev. Charles Kingsley (1819-1875) referred to this when he said: "Music is a sacred, a God-like thing, given to man by Christ to lift our souls up to God, and to make us feel something of the glory and beauty of God, and all that God has made." In the early history of the church, St. Augustine (354-430) paid the following tribute to music in connection with the church: "How did I weep in Thy hymns and canticles, touched to the quick by the voices of Thy sweet-attuned church! The voices flowed into mine ears, and the truth distilled into mine heart, whence the affections of my devotion overflowed, and tears ran down, and happy was I therein. Mark the allusion to "the voices of Thy sweet-attuned church," and again, "the voices flowed into mine ears." What a plea for congregational singing! Martin Luther (1483-1546) gave music great significance when he said: "Next to the word of God, music is the ruler of the affections: man submits to its influence as it forced from within. No doubt, whatever, the hearts of lovers of music harbor the germs of many virtues. Those who are left cold on hearing music must have hearts of stone."

From the foregoing we learn two important things. We learn in the first place that music has been recognized throughout the history of the church by the greatest preachers of the gospel, beginning with Christ Himself "who gave it to man," says Kingsley, "to lift our souls to God, and to make us feel something of the glory and beauty of God, and of all that God has made." We learn in the second place that Christ and His ministers did not always rely upon preaching the Word in order to draw men's souls to God. They knew that there were other ways of preaching the gospel besides preaching it from the pulpit. So they tuned their voices and sang together. "And when they had sung a hymn, they went out into the Mount of Olives."—Angelo M. Read, in The Musician.

TRAIN UPSET INTO LAKE.

Fifteen People Reported Killed in an Iowa Wreck.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 19—The Times has just received a telephone message from Sioux Falls, saying a passenger train on the Chicago, St Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha was wrecked near Hamburg, Iowa, and 15 persons were killed.

The train in rounding a curve came upon a hand car containing five men, who jumped and saved their lives. The train struck the handcar and was derailed, tumbling into a lake beside the track, and fifteen people perished.

Had Tried 'Em.

A negro was arrested by the police yesterday, charged with some misdemeanor, and while standing near the mayor's office talked very freely. He was rather boastful, and said he had worked in Birmingham, and always made good money, therefore he could pay any fine or go to jail, either, it didn't make much difference to him. He said the only objection he had to going to jail here was that the jail was a wooden one; he preferred a brick jail—"Now, dere is Charlotte, dey got a fine jail, an' in fack, all de jails I bin put in is bilt outen brick, an' I don't like to go in a wooden jail after bein' use to good brick uns."

The Poet Burns,

Not the least of the advantages attending life assurance is the serenity of mind which attends the provident man lying on a bed of sickness, or when he is in prospect of death—so unlike that painful anxiety for the future welfare of the family not provided for. The poet Burns, in writing to a friend a few days before his death, said that he was "still the victim of affliction. Alas! Clark, I begin to fear the worst. Burns' poor widow and a half a dozen of his dear little ones, helpless orphans; there, I am weak as a woman's tear. Enough of this. 'tis half of my disease!"

"If you would escape the rock upon which the lamented Burns split;" take shelter from the storm that is bound to spend its fury upon you when the fatal summons comes, by at once securing the magnetic contract offered by the Provident Savings.

Names of Litigants.

In an old Indiana case a man named Shallcross undertook to live up to his name by running an unlawful ferry, but the decision of the court said to him, "You shall not cross."

The name of an adopted citizen of the Chickasaw Nation, whose adoption was canceled and who was thereupon expelled, was Run Hannah.

A California woman who said in her will, "I have no fear of the hereafter: O my Lord, teach me to live right, then in dying there is no sting," bore the prophetic Christian name of Euthanasia.

The name Dr. Physick, which might be looked for in some allegory, appears as the name of a real person in a recent law report.

Some peculiarly suggestive combinations of names in the titles of cases are these: People versus Kaiser, Priest versus Lackey, Kick versus Merry, Protected Home Circle versus Winter, Grant versus Lookout Mountain Company.

In reminiscences of the early Minnesota bar Judge Charles E. Flandrau tells in the Minnesota Law Journal of an argument before the supreme court in 1853 by ex-Chief Justice Goodrich on behalf of an Indian convicted of murder. The Indian's name was Zu-aiza, but as the counsel could not pronounce it he always referred to him in his argument as "my client, Ahasuerus."—Case and Comment.

The Irrepressible Small Boy.

This is a true story, and it really happened in a New York family. It looks as if it might be an old story brought up to date or renovated for the occasion, but it is exactly as the small boy arranged it and not to the edification of his family. The small boy was very fond of ice cream. It never cloyed his palate. It was with the same delight that he saw it each time brought on the table and upon each of these times he showed the exuberance of his feelings by crying in rapturous tones "Oh-o-o! Ice cream! Ice cream! Ice cream!" much to his mamma's annoyance.

"People will think we never have ice cream or anything else to eat," she said to her son one day. "Now, we are going to have company to dinner tonight, and I don't want you to say a word when the ice cream is brought on." The small boy promised. He really was a good little boy, and he intended to mind. But when the cream was brought on the old feeling of rapture was so strong that he forgot entirely and cried out as usual. Then he remembered and stopped short, looking very repentant. He had not intended to call out, and his mother was mortified. He changed his tone entirely.

Painfully Polite.

The people of Dresden are very polite, so overpolite that they not infrequently bring down ridicule upon themselves. It used to be told in that city that a stranger was one day crossing the great bridge that spans the Elbe and asked a native to direct him to a certain church which he wished to find.

"Really, my dear sir," said the Dresdener, bowing low, "I grieve greatly to say it, but I cannot tell you."

The stranger passed on, a little surprised at this voluble answer to a simple question. He had proceeded but a short distance when he heard hurried footsteps behind him, and, turning round, saw the same man running to catch up with him.

In a moment his pursuer was by his side, his breath nearly gone, but enough left to say hurriedly: "My dear sir, you asked me how you could find the church, and it pained me to have to say that I did not know. Just now I met my brother, but I grieve to say that he did not know either."

Her Opinion In Full.

The car turned sharply around a curve and the tall man who was holding on to a strap somewhat loosely was suddenly thrown from his upright position with a force that landed him in the lap of a dignified dowager sitting near him, while his high silk hat flew from his head and rolled down the aisle of the car.

"Sir," she said as he rose to his feet again with profuse apologies, "I am compelled to say that in my judgment you were lacking in that complete grasp of the strap which was essential to the highest efficiency in maintaining an upright attitude when turning a curve."

That was all. But it crushed him.—Chicago Tribune.

As He Understands It.

"As I understand it," remarked the intelligent foreigner, "you Americans regard George Washington's hatchet as the emblem of truth."

"Then, when statesmen or other individuals who have quarreled, bury the hatchet, I suppose they cease to speak the truth?"—Detroit Free Press.

A MIXED SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Cordele, Ga., Nov. 29—Notice was served on a Mr. Anderson, at Listonia, near here yesterday, that he must give up a Sunday school which he had started, in which there are both white and negro children in attendance. Listonia is a colony of northern settlers, on the Georgia & Alabama road, seven miles from Cordele. Anderson is one of the settlers, and some time ago started his "mixed" school. A meeting of the people in the neighborhood was held at the justice of the peace's court.

Resolutions were adopted declaring the school a "vile nuisance," which should not be tolerated, and a committee was appointed to inform Anderson that his school must be disbanded, or he would have to take the consequences. That gentleman informed the committee that he would continue the school at all hazards. Should he persist in his determination serious trouble will be certain to result.

A Woman's Hand.

The dawn grew golden in the East,
The dancing and the music ceased,
The world—the world of men—awoke,
And then the guest who tarried spoke.

And as he spoke he took her hand
In his (he could not understand)
And held it, tiny white and slim,
While she in silence gazed at him.

"Soft, little, tender, birdlike thing,
May time or toil," he murmured,
"bring
No line to thee, poor girlish hand!"
(Oh, he could never understand!)

Then she, with one strange, wistful look,
Drew back the hand he idly took,
And, smiling, hid it from his gaze,
While he bowed low and went his ways.

The little hand remained the same
Soft, [illegible] no toil
[illegible]

No [illegible] day by day
For in the world its only task
Was but to press a wayward heart

A SOCIAL QUEEN.

"Who would ever believe that she is the mother of five children." These were the words that caught the ear of the Woman Reporter as she moved among the throng at a fashionable reception. Just before her stood the hostess, a young-looking, handsome woman receiving her guests with that air of hearty vivacious enjoyment which all the world considers as the special prerogative of youth.

There was sparkle in her eyes, a soft clear natural color in her cheeks; she had a firm and rounded form, and that steady easy poise of the whole body which betokens strong limbs and healthy nerves.

It was the Reporter's business to be curious; moreover, she was a woman; and receiving gracious permission to call on the following day, she duly presented herself armed with a hundred such questions as only a woman can ask.

"Yes, I have five children" said the hostess, with a tone of earnest happy pride; "hope I'll have five more. I love every one of them. They are good children too, and a comfort to me all the time."

"You can't understand it of course, and my friends wonder that I keep my health and strength and do my work; but that I take care of myself is the reason. I never used to be strong. I was thoughtless and careless. After my first baby came I was all broken down and prayed that I might never have another, but I have learned better and I am stronger now than I ever was in my life."

"Women break down because they go without the little extra help they need to tide them over hard places. When a woman expects to become a mother she ought to be at her very best. But that is exactly the time when most women feel weak and sick and miserable. They grow nervous and irritable as the time approaches and when it comes they have no strength or stamina of body or mind to go through the ordeal."

"No wonder they suffer and nearly die sometimes, and are all broken down for months or years. If they would take the right care of themselves and strengthen themselves in a natural way, they would never suffer as they do; and instead of dreading to have children they would welcome them as a real blessing."

"It is simply a case of a 'stitch in time saves nine' or rather nine hundred. A little natural reinforcement at the time when baby is expected will save months, perhaps years of suffering and weakness. At such a time I always take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription; it invariably gives me the extra strength and healthy nerve-power which a woman needs to bring her baby into the world safely and comfortably."

"It is the most wonderful thing in the world to build up a woman's nervous system and strengthen the special organism of motherhood. It gives you the recuperative power that a woman cannot get in any other way. It carries you through the nursing time beautifully; it helps you to nourish the baby and make him hearty and strong too. My four younger children are the sturdiest youngsters you ever saw. This one, grand 'Favorite Prescription' has made me the healthy, happy mother I am."

"I can tell you of a dozen women who have had almost the same experience as mine. I saw a letter written by Mrs. Jennie J. Jackson, who lived at Fergussons Wharf, in Isle of Wight Co., Va. These are her own words: 'I have enjoyed better health since taking Dr. Pierce's medicine than I have since I have been married. I can work hard all day and sleep well at night. I was almost gone when I wrote to Doctor Pierce three years ago. I had uterine trouble very badly, but, thank the Lord, I am very well now. My doctor did not have any faith in 'patent medicines,' but he says, 'something has done you good.' I tried many different medicines and got no better until I tried Dr. Pierce's medicines. The first bottle gave me ease. I have taken six bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and I feel as well as ever in my life, and can work hard all day and do as much walking as I ever did. I was nothing but a skeleton. I was so thin in flesh that it hurt me to lie down.'"

"I think Dr. Pierce has done more toward making healthy, happy women than any other man in this country."

"If you want a heavy cloth-bound copy of the book, like this one, (picking up and exibiting to the Reporter a large beautifully bound volume) send 31 stamps, and address World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y."

COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT.

The Gate City Band Visited Greensboro Female College Last Night.

The Gate City Band, in full uniform, went up to Greensboro Female College last evening and tendered the young ladies of that institution a complimentary concert.

At 8:15 the members of the band filed into the chapel and proceeded to the rostrum, and then gave the young la and a few personal friends and relatives of the faculty a concert of some very choice and well selected music, which lasted for one and a half hours.

At the conclusion of the musica program, Dr. Peacock arose and expressed his great surprise at the progress the band has made since ga a week and also his appreciation, both personally and for the college, for the delightful evening spent with an organization that has such bright prospects for the future as this band has.

The members of the band feel very grateful to the young ladies, who presented the musicians with a large basket of luscious fruits, which can be seen in the show window of J. M. Hendrix & Co.'s store.

A brief social reception was held and a cordial invitation extended to this excellent organization to call again, and promising to throw the doors wide open whenever the boys saw fit to accept this invitation.

Gov. Bob Taylor Here.

Governor Robert L. Taylor, of Tennessee, who lectures at the Academy of Music in this city tomorrow night, arrived on the northbound train last evening and went up to Winston today to deliver his famous lecture tonight.

During his stay in this city he was a guest of the McAdoo. He will return to Greensboro tomorrow morning. Bear in mind that his subject tomorrow night will be "Love, Laughter and Song," and that you should not fail to hear this distinguished lecturer.

Another New Engine.

In a southbound freight train at noon today was a monster passenger engine whose driving wheels are about 6 feet 8 inches in diameter, or four inches higher than those of the other large engines of the Southern. It was being carried to the Southern's shops at Spencer, to receive the finishing touches. Its number is 358.

Everybody who reads newspapers and most of the people who don't have found out by this time that shoe factories and wholesale shoe dealers have advanced their prices on shoes. Hides are higher, leather is higher, everything that goes into a shoe is higher, consequently the shoe factories are obliged to charge more for shoes. But we had the good luck to buy largely in July and August, before the advance, and we are very glad to be able to inform our customers that we can sell them all the shoes they want at old prices, at least until Christmas. We knew prices were bound to go up and "prepared for war in time of peace," so now we have in our store the largest and best stock of shoes we ever owned and can sell them to you just as low as we ever did.

The lecture of Gov. Bob Taylor at the Academy tomorrow night is something you should not fail to hear. There has been no entertainment here this season that will touch it in point of excellence and beauty. The subject will be "Love, Laughter and Song."

Mr. Nathan Spencer had the misfortune to get the thumb on his left hand badly mashed this morning while working at the large grindstone at the Greensboro Sash & Blind Co.
